Congress.

DEATH of the VICE-PRESIDENT.

SENATE.

Monday, April 20, 1812.

IMMEDIATELY after the Senate had assembled, the President pro tem. (Mr. Crawford) rose, and said,

"GENTLEMEN—Upon me devolves the painful duty of announcing to the Senate, the Death of our venerable fellow-citizen, GEORGE CLINTON, Vice-President of the United States. By this afflicting dispensation of Divine Providence, the Senate is deprived of a President, rendered dear to each of its members by the dignity and impartiality with which he has so long presided over their deliberations, and the nation bereaved of one of the brightest luminaries of its glorious Revolution."

It was then moved, and unanimously resolved, That Messrs. Stacia, of N.Y. Smith, (of Md.) German, Giles and Bradley, be a Committee, to be joined by the House, to report measures proper to be adopted, to manifest the public respect and the regret of Congress, on the death of a citizen so highly respected and revered [illegible] and Messrs. Lambert, Morrill, Gold, Sloane and Anderson compose the committee on the part of the House.

House of Representatives, April 20.

A message from the Senate was received announcing the death of the Vice President of the United States, which having been read,

Mr. Talmadge (of Connecticut) said, it was assuredly not from a want of respect to the memory of the Patriot deceased, that some member from the State of New-York, did not on this occasion address the chair.—At their request, and being himself a native citizen of the State of New-York, and having served particularly, and on honorable occasions, in the revolutionary war with the gentleman whose death was now announced; having long known his services and merits, both as a soldier and statesman, he took the liberty, in behalf of the delegation from New-York, to move a concurrence in the resolution of the Senate.

The above Committee was then chosen.

☞ The Committee of Arrangements reported, that 33 hackney-coaches were provided for the use of the members. The House then adjourned, to meet again about 4 o'clock to attend the funeral.

SENATE, APRIL 21.

The Senate after voting to shroud the chair of the President of the Senate with black and to wear crape for 30 days, adjourned to attend the funeral of the Vice-President of the United States.

House of Representatives, April 21.

Funeral of the Vice-President.

This day, the remains of the late GEORGE CLINTON, Vice-President of the United States, were interred with those marks of respect due to the Revolutionary Hero, the Patriot and the Statesman combined in one person.

ORDER OF THE PROCESSION.

The corpse was removed from the late residence of the deceased, to the Capitol, under the charge of the Committee of Arrangements, escorted by a detachment of Cavalry, which at 4 o'clock, the Procession moved in the following order:—

The Troop of Cavalry.
Marine Corps.
The Chaplains of the Two Houses of Congress.
The Physicians who attended the deceased.

THE HEARSE.

Pall-Bearers. Mr. H. Clay, Mr. Butler, Mr. Sammons, Mr. Talmadge, Mr. Wright, Mr. Sevier, Mr. Brown, Mr. Macon.

The Family Mourners.
The President of the United States.
Secretaries of the Senate.
The Senate.
[The Chief Magistrate of the State of New-York and the Private Secretary.]
The House of Representatives, preceded by the Speaker and Clerk.
The Heads of Departments.
Officers of the Navy and Army.
Foreign Ministers, Citizens, Strangers, &c.

Tuesday, April 21.

On motion of Mr. Fairfaney, resolved unanimously, That from the unfeigned respect to the late GEORGE CLINTON, Vice-President of the United States and President of the Senate, the Speaker's Chair be shrouded in black, during the present session, and as a further testimony of respect for the memory of the deceased, the members will wear mourning and wear a black crape on the left arm for thirty days.—A similar vote was adopted in the Senate.

A [illegible] of arrangements [illegible] the late Vice-President of the United States, had [illegible] the House had voted to adopt the [illegible] of mourning, [illegible] to attend the funeral.

HOUSE of REPRESENTATIVES.

Monday, April 20.

Petitions praying the suspension of the Non-Intercourse Law, were presented by several members.

Mr. Lowndes, (of S. C.) alluding to the bill for the partial repeal of the Non-Intercourse Law, observed, though he thought the adoption of it would be wise and beneficial, he was convinced that the agitation of the subject would be useless, he should therefore not call up the bill; and, if called up by any other gentleman, he should vote against taking it up.

Wednesday, April 22.

Mr. Quincy presented the petition of Joseph Head, of Boston, praying that the ship Ganges may be permitted to enter a port of the United States.—This is a case, the circumstances of which are nearly as follows: The vessel sailed, subsequently to the President's proclamation of November, 1810, to the East-Indies, under orders to go from a British port to a native port, in order to take in a load whereswith to return home.—When the vessel arrived at Calcutta, it was found by a new order of the British government, that the vessel was prohibited from going coastwise, the consequence of which was, that the purpose of the voyage could not be accomplished.—They then took on board, at Calcutta, a cargo equal in value to that carried, in giving heavy bonds to re-land the same in some port of the United States; and now, that they had arrived off the coast, the vessel could not enter, because of the inhibitory law, and were prevented, by the bonds given in India from carrying the cargo elsewhere. The petition prays permission to enter into a port of the United States, there to remain with the cargo, until by some general law, such vessels should be admitted. Referred.

A number of local and uninteresting bills were read, and petitions presented.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

The President by message recommended to Congress, to provide for two subordinate appointments in the Department of War, with such compensations annexed as may be reasonably expected by citizens duly qualified for the important functions which may be properly assigned to them. The great augmentation of business in this department is assigned as the cause of the recommendation. Committed to Messrs. Harper, Williams, Pleasants, Troup and Champion.

ADDITIONAL OFFICERS.

The bill to authorize the appointment of two additional Major-Generals and four Brigadier-Generals, was amended, and passed to be engrossed.

The bill making further provision for the Corps of Engineers, was taken up, when an amendment was proposed to authorize the President to dispense with the Military Academy from West-Point to Washington, was again discussed; and the amendment was adopted in committee. Adjourned.

Tuesday, April 23.

Mr. Quincy presented the petition of Ezra Waterson and Ezra Waterson, merchants of Duxbury, (Mass.) praying indemnification for the loss of their brig Gerrish, which was captured and burnt by the French squadron, under orders of the French Emperor. Referred to a select committee of inquiry.

Mr. Gold presented the petition of Charles Seaton and 100 others, traders and dealers in goods in the state of New-York, praying a repeal or modification of the Embargo law.

Mr. Livingston a similar one from Ebenezer Jones, and 50 others, inhabitants of Troy, (New-York)

Mr. Bleecker a similar one from John P. D. Dore and 104 others of Albany, in same state.

Also, from John Scott and 148 others of Ware Ind.

Mr. Fitch a similar one from Lot Jones and 153 others of Lansingburgh, (N. Y.)

Mr. Gold moved to refer the several petitions to a select committee.

This motion gave rise to a debate of considerable warmth and interest.

Mr. Randolph moved to refer them to a committee of the whole house, which motion superseded Mr. Gold's. Mr. Williams made a motion, which superseded that of Mr. Randolph's, and they lie on the table.

The question was then determined in the negative—Yeas 17, Nays 86.

Mr. Rhea moved that the further consideration of the petitions be postponed till the 4th of July next.

The question was taken by ayes and noes, and were, Yeas [illegible], Nays [illegible].

[This decision may be considered as an expression of the sense of the house in relation to the continuance of the Embargo.]

An engrossed bill making further provision for the army of the U. S. was read a third time.

On the question shall the bill pass, Mr. Wright, Mr. Talmadge and Mr. [illegible] spoke at length in opposition to the bill on constitutional grounds.

No decision took place.

Friday, April 24.

Mr. Hall presented the petition of John Gilman and [illegible] merchants of Portsmouth, N. H. and its vicinity, praying for a repeal of the Non-Importation law. Referred to the committee of the whole House, who have that subject under consideration.

Mr. Harper from the select committee, to whom the message of the president was referred, recommending the appointment of two assisting secretaries in the War Department, reported a bill for that purpose, which was twice read and referred to a committee of the whole house.

The house took up the unfinished business of yesterday, on the bill making further provision for the army of the United States.

On motion of Mr. Wright, it was recommitted to a committee of the whole house.

A bill from the senate, establishing a general land-office in the treasury department, was read a third time and passed.

A bill from the senate authorising the appointment of an additional judge for the district court of the district of New-York. Read twice and referred to a committee of the whole house for this day.

The house resumed the consideration of the bill making further provision for the corps of engineers.—No decision.

SENATE.

Wednesday, April 22.

A RECESS.

The resolution for an inquiry into the practicability of a recess, was taken up, and Messrs. Bradley, Roan, Worthington, Goodrich, and Lloyd, appointed to report thereon.

Mr. Lloyd presented the petition of Messrs. Weston and Son of Massachusetts, praying indemnification for a vessel captured by two French frigates, on her voyage from Boston to Oporto—Committed.

A great number of petitions, praying for the repeal of the Embargo law, and the suspension of the Non-Importation, were received and referred as usual.

ARMED MERCHANTMEN.

A bill concerning merchant vessels armed for defence was reported by Mr. Dana, and read twice.

Thursday, April 23.

Mr. Davis, from the committee appointed on the subject, further reported a bill respecting associations for maritime security—and the bill was read and passed to a second reading.

The bill authorising the departure of ships and vessels from the ports and harbours of the United States in certain cases, and the bill concerning merchant vessels armed for defence, were read a second time.

Friday, April 24.

The bill from the House, authorising the departure of ships and vessels from the ports and harbours of the United States, in certain cases, was ordered to a second reading.

Mr. Bradley, from the select committee on the subject of a recess, reported a resolution authorising the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives to adjourn their respective Houses; and the resolution was twice read, and amended by striking out the words "their next meeting," so as to leave it blank.

The resolution as reported, proposed a recess from the 20th inst. to 18th May. The latter day is the part stricken out.

On the passage of this resolution to a third reading, the vote was as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Bradley, Condit, Crawford, Dana, German, Gilman, Goodrich, Gregg, Horsey, Hunter, Lambert, Lloyd, Pope, Reed, Smith of New-York, Turner, Worthington—18.

NAYS—Messrs. Anderson, Bibb, Brent, Campbell of Tenn. Cutts, Gaillard, Giles, Howell, Robinson, Smith of Maryland, Taft, Taylor, Varnum—13.

By the last Mails.

CITY OF MEXICO.

WASHINGTON CITY, APRIL 23.

THE mortal remains of the late Vice-President of the United States were this day evening interred in the burying ground near the Capitol, in the presence of a concourse of people greater than ever was before gathered together in this city on any similar occasion. The ships were [illegible] early hours; and a general [illegible] of business and of society [illegible] with as complete effect as upon the Sabbath. The procession [illegible] half an hour behind the appointed time, in consequence of the order announced.—[Nat. Intel. Extra.] The scene was awful and impressive. The martial pageantry, the glittering arms and nodding plumes of the military corps which preceded the hearse—the solemn melody of the musical band, which attuned all hearts to the occasion—the sable hearse attended by that veteran patriot-soldiers who participated in the toils of the revolution—the well-known carriage of the deceased—the Chief Magistrate of the Nation [illegible] the loss of one of its noble sons—the Senate deploring the loss of a tried President—Sure way [illegible] describe the heightened [illegible] to say, that this assemblage [illegible] and interesting object [illegible] suited to the occasion. When a Great Man descends to the tomb of his ancestors, it is fit that the whole nation bewail the general loss, and history immortalize his name. Hallowed be the ashes of the honored dead!

April 25.

In the Senate of the United States, a resolution has passed to a third reading by a vote of 8 to 13, for a recess of Congress, to commence on the 20th inst. The date of its termination is not fixed; but it is supposed the recess will be prolonged for about 30 days. In the House of Representatives the House will be nearly equally divided on the vote on this question.—Nat. Intel.

NEW-YORK, APRIL 27.

TERRIBLE EARTHQUAKE.

Extract of a letter from a Merchant in Laguaira to his Correspondent in New-York, dated April 1st.

"You will perceive by this that I am still alive, although the danger and misery we have all been in since my last, are beyond conception. On the 26th ult. at 5 P. M. we had an earthquake here, which has completely ruined this part of the province. Not a House is standing that any person would venture to remain in a single hour, and nine-tenths of the town are level with the ground.—From twenty-five hundred to three thousand persons, it is calculated, have lost their lives. Caraccas has shared the same fate. I was there at the time the dreadful catastrophe happened, and escaped by running from the house into a large court yard in which nothing could fall upon me, where I remained until it was over. We have had one or more shocks every day since.

There is not a house in Laguira, nor more than fifty in the whole city of Caraccas, but will have to be pulled down, or the places completely abandoned, which latter I think will be the case; and cities and towns built in place adjacent and of wood. Ten thousand lives are said to be lost in Caraccas; but it is impossible to tell to a certainty. They have been digging out the bodies ever since, and burning them.—It is shocking to see, at the close of the day, heads, arms, and legs, that have have been left unburnt, as the fire dies away; and the stench is terrible. Every person is ordered out of Caraccas, except labourers, to avoid a pestilence.—Three-fourths of the wealth of Caraccas are lost; and as no day has passed without a shock, we are waiting with fear and trembling to know when it will be entirely over, or what the effect of the next shock will be. All foreigners, and every other person having the means, are leaving the place, for the islands, and elsewhere. There is a report that Porto-Cavello is safe. If so, many will flock to it; but a long time will be required to make it [illegible] business. I should have [illegible] others, had I not thought [illegible] to attend to your interest [illegible] is your loss, it is impossible for me to say. Two American vessels have arrived since, and the Government has seized them, but they will be allowed to go to Porto-Cavello; they are addressed to Mr Lowtey, and he goes out with them.

Lumber and provisions will sell well here; the former will be in great demand for some time to build with, as the people now live in an open common."

At Laguira on the 4th of April, there was again a very hard shock, which made the vessels tremble as if they had been on a reef of rocks in a heavy sea—and from on board the Independence,* we could see the mountains move like a ship in a heavy sea, and large pieces sealing off them. At half past 5, the Independence sailed, so that we could not tell what new damage had been done.

April 28.

EARTHQUAKE IN CARACCAS.

Several additional accounts of the late earthquake have been received both from Caraccas and Laguira, and we have hopes, the first accounts of the loss of human lives have been exaggerated, though those actually ascertained are very melancholy. The great shock on the 26th ult. was in the solemn Lent, and on the eve of Good Friday when the churches were filled with worshippers.—Of 40 places of worship 35 were destroyed, and being principally of stone, the destruction of many in their fall was inevitable. The earth undulated like water in waves from 18 inches to two feet high. The first shock was preceded and attended with noise equalling the roaring of a thousand cannon,—this excited so much terror as to deprive many of the power of running out-doors, and escaping.—Hundreds were crushed by falling walls while on their knees in the act of supplication, who had time to have got into open places. The scene thus occasioned was distressing beyond description.—The great shock continued from one to four minutes—others less violent succeeded for several days, and on the 4th April, (the last date) another was felt, when the ship-master who brought the account describes as having made the mountains rock like a vessel in a heavy sea. The extent of the destruction of lives had not been fully ascertained—[illegible] been dug out of the ruins in Laguira; and at Caraccas among [illegible]. The dead were either carried off and sunk in the sea or burned to prevent infection. To add to the calamity, the lawless immediately commenced the robbery and destruction of what the Earthquake had spared. Of the Americans at these places, we have only heard of one, Mr. Crowell, of New-York, who perished.

BOSTON, APRIL 30.

France & Spain.

A gentleman from Holmes' Hole, which he left on Tuesday last, at noon, states [illegible] the Zephyr, Olcott, had arrived there in 3 days from Rochelle, France, bound to New York; that the capt. of the Zephyr informed him, that a treaty was to be sent out in the Hornet, and was such as might be expected from the French emperor, favorable to America.

War.

Besides the clamor of War with England, we have some chance of a War with Spain—and a course of similar experience with the whole Tribe of Indians from North to South.—Our warhawks must, therefore, be stunned with noise, or they will be worsted in the conflict of striving to which shall do the other the most harm."

AVILLA.

A gentleman arrived at Savannah, who left Avilla on the 14th inst. informs, that the Governor of Augustine was determined not to surrender the place till he was compelled by superior force, and that the taking it should cost the Patriots and their adherents dear—the force in the place was not known—the Patriots force was from 4 to 5000.

MORE DEMOCRATIC MORALITY!

Extract from a Young [illegible] editor of the Virginia [illegible]

"The capture of Amelia Island is [illegible] altogether unauthorised by government, but, then, as it is taken, I think we might as well keep it."

Capt. Adams, who arrived at Baltimore from Teneriffe, reports that of the inhabitants in the port of Orotava, 12 had the fever, 370 died, and 200 recovered, 330 escaped the contagion—680 had left the city. The fever had ceased, the cordon was taken off, and the inhabitants were returning. The Island of Teneriffe containing 95,000, and the other six islands 115,000 souls.—They were in a state of starvation in Teneriffe, and all the Canary Islands; when he came away, they were eating horses, cows, and other animals; a number had died of hunger, during his stay there, (6 days.) The Indian corn was delivered from his ship in small quantities, by the Mayor in person, to the [illegible], at two quarts to each person. The peasants came upwards of twelve miles from the country, for that quantity.—They pressed so hard at the granary door, that the Governor ordered [illegible] back; but [illegible] was so great, [illegible] were considerably hurt; several American seamen were starving [illegible].—Capt. A. took them to his [illegible] and fed them for twelve days, while his ship was blown out of the roads; when the ship returned, he took them on board, and brought them with him.—The Locusts were so numerous on the Island, as to darken the sky, devouring every thing before them. For want of rain last season, the crops of wine were very short; the greatest part of which was shipped to England and Portugal; the price had risen from 25 to 35 per pipe; Indian corn had sold at 3 dollars per bushel, and Flour 20 per bbl.—little at market.

Democrat,

SATURDAY, MAY 2, 1812.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The embargo appears to grind society, particularly in the states of New-York and Pennsylvania. The state paper at Albany has come out against it with an elaborate manifesto, in which all the other restrictive measures are condemned, and the executive is represented as scheming to depress New-York, who it is now sternly declared, will insist upon her rank by nominating a President.

We predict, that if this embargo is not removed before long, it will raise such a flame as will not only consume the pretensions of poor Madison to the next Presidency, but make him groan that he ever was elected.

On the 4th ult. a meeting of Millers, Purchasers of Wheat, and other Citizens, (a majority of whom appear to have been democratic) of Berks county, Pennsylvania, was held, "for the purpose of taking into consideration the late measures of Congress, the perilous situation of our common country, and of consulting and devising such means or measures as may tend to relieve us from the distress which hangs over us"—After organizing the meeting, they passed a number of Resolutions—"Resolved, approving of the late measures of Congress, particularly the Embargo, which will induce great hardships and oppression to the Millers and Farmers of Pennsylvania in particular, and to the citizens generally"—directing a Memorial to Congress to be prepared, praying a repeal of the Embargo—requesting "the friends to the peace and prosperity of our country throughout the Union to assemble, and express their disapprobation of the Embargo, and to solicit its repeal, in order to save our country from the evil with which it threatens to overwhelm her"—directing a Remonstrance to the Representatives from the district to be prepared, expressive of disapprobation of their conduct in voting for such an obnoxious law, and instructing them to endeavor to have the same repealed as soon as may be.

In the memorial to Congress, which the meeting adopted, and which was sent into the different towns to receive the signatures of such as concur in its sentiments, they say, "However pure and well intended the motives may be that called into existence the much dreaded Embargo, if its consequences are likely to prove injurious to our general interest, those motives, however justifiable, ought not to be applauded, nor persisted in; but disapproved and renounced, and the law, the effect of their operation, should be abolished."—"Past experience teaches us, that at no time is the Embargo system calculated to promote the interest of our country. The voice of the people is and always has been in open and avowed hostility to this measure. The last Embargo which was laid on the vessels in the ports and harbors of the United States produced embarrassment and ruin to a great portion of our citizens. The present if persisted in, is likely to produce far greater and more extended evil. It was pounced upon our citizens suddenly and unexpectedly (contrary to assurances from our representatives in Congress, contrary to all reasonable calculations from the public sentiment as to the operations and effects of the last Embargo) with a valuable perishable property on their hands, that will be lost to them and the community, and many worthy families involved in utter ruin, unless some relief is afforded them in the premises by your honorable body. The ruinous consequences resulting from the Embargo are certain, the good it may occasion is extremely precarious. Its pernicious tendency will not be confined to the seaboard, where we with regret do observe it will be incalculably great; but its direful effects will be extended through the country generally. One third at least of the grain, the staple commodity of our commerce, the produce of last year, is yet on hand; and our farmers, many of whom have heavy payments to make, seeing themselves thus cut off from the only hope of raising money to meet their engagements, have become greatly embarrassed and seriously alarmed. To the merchants, its forebodings are equally distressing; in fine, the mechanic and every other occupation will more or less be involved in the general ruin it occasion. What are the advantages which possibly may redound to the country from the operation of the Embargo. Will it distress any of the belligerents who have robbed and plundered us, burnt and destroyed our property? Will it cause them to recant their ungenerous, unjust and wicked conduct towards us, and dispose them to respect us as a nation in future, and treat us with magnanimity, honor and justice? The result of the former Embargo furnishes a ready answer to these queries."—After a number of other observations, showing the great evils which the Embargo must necessarily produce, without any benefits to balance them, they pray for its repeal, or at least for its modification so that it may not extend beyond 60 days.

The following is the Remonstrance to the Representatives of the district in Congress.

To Messrs. John M. Hyneman, Roger Davis and Joseph Lefever.

"GENTLEMEN,

"Your votes of concurrence to the amendment of the Senate on the passage of the Embargo Law of 90 instead of 60 days, as recommended by the President, will draw upon you the censure of every honest man of all parties. The millers and wheat purchasers have had a meeting in Reading on the 11th instant, agreeably to notice in the papers, to take into consideration the propriety of remonstrating to Congress against the Embargo lately passed &c. They passed a number of resolutions, which close in the following words: Resolved, That John H. Hyneman, Roger Davis and Joseph Lefever, members of Congress from this district, be instructed to use their endeavours to have the act laying an Embargo on the ports of the United States repealed at the expiration of sixty days, or sooner if possible. Gentlemen, you will have by your votes in concurring with the Senate's amendment to lay an Embargo for 90 instead of 60 days, as recommended by the President, forfeited all confidence of the citizens of said district, unless you immediately move for its repeal at the end of 60 days or sooner if possible; with the millers we, as farmers and inhabitants of your district, fully concur. You are or ought to be guardians of our interest and property as well as our liberty, which likely to be affected by a law of the general Government, which by your vote you have described. The great quantity of flour now made and ready for market in the different mills, must spoil if forwarded to the city, or if kept in the mills till the month of July, we as farmers cannot leave home and neglect our now growing crops; the great quantity of rye flour, lately made by farmers, will spoil on their hands. Sixty days would not operate so hard; the responsibility is therefore great with you, and unless you can bring about an immediate repeal of the Embargo after the expiration of sixty days or sooner, all confidence we formerly had in your wisdom and integrity will be forfeited by us, citizens of your district."

Embargo meetings.—We are sorry we have not room this day to publish all the resolutions adopted by the democrats as well as federalists in the states of Pensylvania, New-York and New-Jersey against the embargo. In the former, a very numerous meeting consisting principally of Mr. Madison's supporters, met at Reading, and adopted a long string of resolutions, cursing the Embargo with all the bitterness language could supply. At Haddonfield, New-Jersey, a similar meeting was held, at which the people, amounting, as is stated, to at least 1000 persons, took a sheaf of wheat, dressed it in crape, with thirteen streamers of the same; this they placed on the top of the market-house, when an address was delivered, and a song sung, called the Death of Washington.—After which the sheaf was burnt as being of no value, and the company broke up in sober sadness. "Never," says the account, "was there a more heart-felt sympathy expressed, than upon this occasion."—N.Y.E.Post.

From the Albany Gazette—April 23.

EMBARGO MEETING.

On Friday last, a numerous meeting was held at the capitol in this city, without distinction of party, to take into consideration the present Embargo.—The meeting was opened by Mr. Sedgwick, a Federal-Republican, with an eloquent and appropriate address.—Mr. Foote and Mr. Rodman, democrats, followed and delivered strong and impressive speeches. A spirited memorial was then moved, and unanimously agreed to, which has been generally signed by all parties of citizens, and forwarded by mail to Washington.—The Chairman of the meeting was a democrat, and the Secretary a federalist.

THE CLOUDS THICKEN.

Every mail of late teems with the note of preparation and the din of war. Those who misguide the national destinies have put themselves into a terrible passion, and conjecture runs wild by endeavoring to trace their actual intentions. Their declarations do indeed sufficiently assume the warlike armor and attitude, and these again are backed by drafts of the militia, and orders for marching them to the borders of Canada, East-Florida, &c. But on the other hand, as no efficient protection is attempted on any part of the seaboard, where alone a foreign enemy can do us mischief, and especially as Congress is deaf as the grave to the numerous petitions of our merchants, for leave to withdraw their property from the British dominions, (estimated to exceed fifty millions of dollars,) it is next to impossible to credit their hostile assevarations. Perhaps when the popular tone is properly attuned and ascertained respecting the approaching Presidential election, the real object of all this bluster will be better understood than at present.

THINGS AS THEY ARE.

[The following paragraph, from the Baltimore Federal Republican, of the 26th ult contains "Multum in parvo." The suggestions, we believe, perfectly well-founded; and furnish the only clue to the present shuffling, paradoxical conduct of Administration.]

"It would be difficult to answer the question, for what purpose congress are adjourning? But they must find out some occupation as an apology for renewing the session, and what the next move will be is equally as difficult to foresee.—The state of the political game is desperate, hence nothing can be expected but desperate play. As Mr Madison is canvassing for votes with all his might, and has none to spare, his situation is highly embarrassing. Suppose Mr. Clay demands war, on pain of deserting him with all the mettlesome troops he can gather to his standard.—Poor Madison must affect to use his influence and declare his opinion for war. Suppose Messrs. Lowndes, Cheves and others call for the permanent or temporary removal of the non-importation law this must also be assented to. Suppose Mr Rhea of Tennessee should be able to raise a band of twenty determined followers, who should boldly declare that if that law is not left untouched, their resentment shall be felt to the election—why then again the non-importation must remain in statu quo. It is readily perceived, that no steady course can be pursued by a wight so circumstanced. The embargo is a measure, which cannot, however, be accounted for upon such principles. No separate interest is promoted by it, and it is not more pernicious to the mass of the nation, than it will prove fatal to the hopes which have laid it. It must, therefore, it seems, be considered a plant of foreign origin. The manufacturing interest would be sufficiently accommodated by the non-importation without it, and the high sporting which paid for the Study by arms, must find themselves outbalanced in the chance of an embargo.

From the Philadelphia Aurora (Democratic paper.)

Political affairs at Washington City, it appears, are still covered with clouds and darkness. The system of Pettifogging, upon which so many calculations had been made, and upon which money enough for six months active warfare has been expended, appears to have been overdone, and instead of travelling to spin again, the stuff will not work.—Instead of assuring strength, has encreased the mass of discontent, and sunk the confidence even of many who were before confiding in an extreme.

For 13 years past the democratic papers have been occupied in abusing a large portion of the citizens of their country as constituting a faction devoted to Britain. The incessant utterance of this falsehood might make Gov. Craig believe the charge had some foundation in truth; and that he had only to let British wishes be known to have them complied with. He made an essay, which promptly convinced him of the baseless nature of democratic accusations and the folly of his own credulity. But for fear the British should not still calculate on having a devoted party in this country, some of the democratic papers continue their infamous slanders.—Bos. Palladium

The Secretary of the Treasury has reported to Congress, that the sums appropriated by law by acts of the present session of Congress will require this year $17,114,691, and former appropriations will require $8,279,975—Total, $25,394,666—exclusive of the interest on the contemplated loan of 11 millions, so far as it may become due within the year!—Cash on hand, $3,663,182.

The last sentiment of the Vice-President.

A letter from a gentleman in Washington to another in New-York, mentions, that "the Vice-President declared in his last moments, that the only thing which troubled him was the MAD POLICY which now PRESIDED over the destinies of the country."

In a late debate in Congress, Mr Cheves, a democratic member from South-Carolina, stated that the duties on American property requested to be brought in merchandize from England, under the double duties, would amount to more than the eleven million loan which government had advertised for, and they would have to pay neither interest nor principal, and would relieve individuals.

It is said, that by a new treaty, the islands of Porto-Rico, Cuba, and the Spanish part of St Domingo, are placed under the particular protection of the British, but are to have Spanish Governors. Admiral Apodaca is to be Governor of Cuba; Menendez will remain at Porto-Rico.

The New-York Gazette says, that besides the 140 sail of vessels which were hastily loaded at that port, and escaped from the Embargo, 37 sail, mostly from Southern ports, were intercepted in the offing by their owners, and ordered for European and West-India ports.

On the night of the 20th ult. a Store and Barn, with their contents, belonging to Messrs Rowse and Benjamin Babcock, of Westerly, were destroyed by fire.—The fire was discovered about 12 o'clock, and in two hours a range of buildings 73 feet in length was in ashes. From the unremitted and extraordinary exertions of the people of the village and neighborhood, the dwelling-houses of Messrs B were saved. The loss is estimated at $2000. It is unknown how the fire commenced.

To be sold at Public Auction,

ON THURSDAY May 7, 1812 at Noon, A M on the premises if fair, if not the first day fair, if not previously sold at private sale

THAT Valuable ESTATE, occupied as a FACTORY House at the North end of Newport—The Lot measures about three-quarters of an Acre—The Building measuring One Hundred and Eighty feet in length and Thirty feet in breadth, three stories high, the building attached to the north side calculated for a dye room, and a large comping room in excellent order—On land Factory is a large well with an excellent Bell, which is heard at the extreme part of the Town. In the Yard is a large two story Store, a Blacksmith's and Joiner's Shop and three out buildings all the rent of which and enclosed by a fence which is mostly new; also a [illegible] of water in the yard which has lately been bored down a great depth [illegible] of water. There are about [illegible] spinning machines and hand Looms in said Factory many of them of the latest and most approved European plan, a number of wheels, spools, shuttles, &c. &c. a large warping mill, and in the upper story a number of wheels for spinning flax, &c.—This building and situation is inferior to none in the United States for carrying on the cotton, woolen, and linnen spinning, and weaving, by steam works.—The expence of Thirty-Five or Forty Hundred Dollars would procure an Engine of sufficient force to move Five Thousand Spindles and all its machinery—a Paper Mill, and two pair of Mill-stones; the gain of the latter annually will pay the expence of fuel and attendance on the Engine and a sufficient quantity of water can at a trifling expence, be obtained from different sources.—The great advantages of an Engine over the water works has been expressed by a person who has worked in the several Factories in Europe carried by Steam Engines—To prove the utility of steam works many Factories that were carried by water in Europe, have been destroyed and Engines erected in their stead.—This Factory being so near Town, Labourers can be obtained for cheaper the wages paid in the Country Factories transportation of Goods to and from at about one hundredth part the Cotton Factories, and always a ready sale at the Factory for all kinds of Goods made of flax, such as Twine, Lines, Tow-Cloth &c.—The pleasantness of its situation needs no description, having a full view of the Town Harbour &c.—If not purchased for a Factory, it would be a great bargain to be occupied otherways, particularly for industrious Carpenters, to divide into Dwellings.—It has been got in a considerable towardness for a Factory, but the inability of the present Proprietors, (being only two) prevents their completing it.—For terms, which will be liberal, apply to
